MY WORD

By DOROTHY LARIMER

The time has come, the walrus said . . .

An unoriginal introduction to o ainful subject. I have resigned s news editor of The Times, ef- ective next week. It won't be asy leaving my employer, fellow workers and all of you readers who have been so wonderful dur- ng the past year. I leave with many fond memories of covering busy, mixed-up, yet utterly be- utiful little city.

It has been a privilege, a chal- enge and a high trust. And I'm sure there will be a few tears mixed up with the printers ink on your next, and my last, issue of the Times.

Margaret Livingston of El Cer- ito, formerly of Albany, will be taking over. Married to a staffer on the Oakland Tribune, she is a former editor of the El Sobrante Herald. I know you will like her.

There is a salesman at Dun- ning's who doesn't care if he EVER sees Barry and Audrey Shannion of 630 Key Route Blvd. again.

They went down to pick out tile for their washroom. The sales- man said this entitled them to participate in a drawing, so Aud- rey won free carpet installation.

Carpeting was in their future, but they figured as long as it would be installed free, they might as well buy it now. Next day they were back to select the carpet. Barry bought a jar of rug clean- er, which entitled them to an- other chance on the drawing.

This time they won 10 per cent off on carpeting!

"Get out," said the salesman, clutching his head.

Police Blotter Shows Little Of Everything

There was a little bit of every- thing on the police blotter this week.

On July 24 (5:20 a.m.), the alarm sounded from Williams and Lane at 1077 Eastshore. When Officers John Malone and Clinton Standley arrived, they found a group of mystified men standing outside the building. Seems they were with West Coast Shows and had come to leave some equip- ment for repair. One man had tried the shop door, found it un- locked. When he opened it, the alarm came in at the police sta- tion.

On July 26, the department re- ceived a call from someone com- plaining of two men singing in the 600 block on Key Route strip. Officers discovered that in addi- tion to singing badly, they were

FORMER LOCAL TEACHER DIES, MISS VRANNA HURT IN SUNDAY CRASH

Miss Blanche Vranna, head of the math department at Albany High School, was painfully injured and a former Albany High School teacher, Mrs. Carolyn Javaher of Sacramento, was killed Sunday morning on Buchanan near the Pierce intersection as they were returning from a bicycle outing along the waterfront.

The women were struck by a car driven by Ramiro Trujillo, 33, of Richmond, who did not stop. He was halted at Buchanan and Adams by Carl Nusbaum of Richmond, an eyewitness to the tragedy.

According to the police report, the two cyclists and Trujillo were eastbound on Buchanan. The women were riding on the paved but untraveled portion of the roadway when Trujillo's car approached at an estimated 40-50 mph. He passed one car on the right, swerved back into the traffic lane, and started around the Nusbaum auto, when his car struck the bicycle riders.

Miss Vranna, who was the first to be struck, was knocked about six feet to the right onto the sidewalk. A large broomstick she had picked up to take home went completely through one of her legs, protruding about 12 inches on the other side.

When the car struck Mrs. Javaher's bicycle, the Sacramento teacher bounced up on the hood and was carried about 70 feet until she fell to the ground on Department of Agriculture property.

The Trujillo vehicle travelled over the curb and about 35 feet on the sidewalk, leaving the sidewalk as Mrs. Javaher fell. Witnesses said the car slowed as it struck the women and went on the sidewalk, but accelerated almost immediately upon getting back on the street.

According to police officers, bicycle parts were strewn 184 feet east of the point of impact and the Javaher bicycle was carried or dragged 125 feet.

First aid was administered by those at the scene. The broomstick had to be sawed off before Miss Vranna could be placed in the ambulance.

Both women were taken to Herrick Hospital by Firemen Richard Courtney and Fire Capt. W. E. Lanctot, accompanied by Police Sgt. James McLeod, who was off duty and an eye witness to the accident.

Officer Ray Terrill, Sergent McLeod and Inspector Vern Freeman investigated the accident. Trujillo was placed under arrest by Officer Gil Mardilla, on suspicion of manslaughter, felony hit-run, felony drunk driving, speeding and mechanical defect. Trujillo said his car had faulty brakes and the gas pedal stuck.

Citizen Committee Studies School Building Hazards

The Albany Citizens Advisory Committee studying the earthquake and fire safety problem of certain buildings at Albany High School has continued to meet during the summer monhts.

At its last meeting July 24, the Committee heard reports from three sub-committees: Band Building Committee, Mrs. Ruth Arkley, chairman; Annex Building Committee, Mrs. Mary Wallmann, chairman; and Woodshop Building Committee, Barry Runnion, chairman. Each of these sub-committees has surveyed the specific buildings, discussed problems with instructors, heard reports of safety engineers and architects, and finally formulated a statement of recommendation based on their findings.

Edmund J. White, Chairman of the Citizens Advisory Committee, stated that the reports of these sub-committees were accepted and that a final report and recommendation will be submitted to the Albany Board of Education at its regular meeting Tuesday, September 11.

The Board of Education last year, in planning for minor repairs on the above mentioned buildings, was informed by structural engineers that none of these buildings meets the provisions of the Field Act, a State law which provides for the earthquake structural safety of school buildings. In addition all these buildings do not meet the State fire code provisions. The Board is now faced with the problem of a complete replacement of these buildings to meet earthquake and fire safety provisions, or a costly remodeling of building structures.

The Citizens Advisory Committee was appointed last April, 1962, to study this problem and make recommendations. The next meeting will be Tuesday, August 14, 7:45 p.m., Cornell School library.

Traffic Commission To Discuss Patrol

Members of the Traffic and Safety Commission will discuss Albany Junior Traffic Patrol at the meeting at 7 p.m. Wednesday, August 29.

Members of the reorganized commission, in addition to Zoro, are Eleanore Miller, Administrative Officer James B. Turner, Chief Jensen, William McKenna, Robert Profet and Irving Johnson.

CHAMBER PROGRAM — Dr. Arthur Longpre, seated left, was program chairman for the second public luncheon sponsored by the Albany Chamber of Commerce at the YMCA last Wednesday. UNIVERSITY VILLAGERS ALBANY'S 'MISSING 20 PER CENT' -- PROFET

"The Missing 20 Per Cent" was the provocative title of a talk by Robert Profet, University Village resident who is working toward his Ph. D. in nuclear physics at the University of California, at the public Albany Chamber of Commerce luncheon Wednesday at the YMCA.

Profet explained that the Village population represents 20 per cent of Albany's population, yet they feel no closeness to the city, are not active in civic affairs and do not shop here as much as they should.

Stressing he was not an official representative of the students, Profet said Village residents are Berkeley oriented and they often do their shopping on their way home from school. He suggested a two-month discount for students in Albany shops to get them started shopping here.

He warned that time is important to students. They don't like to stand around waiting for clerks. If one student has a gripe against a merchant, everyone in the Village soon knows it. For the most part, students react alike, think alike, vote as a bloc, and shop at almost the same places, Profet said.

He said "Project Friendship," which the Chamber will sponsor for Village residents toward the end of September is a good idea and should help cement relations between Albany and the Village.

The other speaker introduced by Dr. Arthur Longpre, program chairman, was Scott Wilson, residence hall administrator for the University of California. He outlined the history of the Village from the time it was Gill Nursery, through its Federal Housing status during the war, through the period when it was known as Veterans Village, until 1956 when the University purchased the buildings left by FHA, and added 419 more apartments. The present development of 500 apartments makes a total of 919 apartments in the village, housing an expected 3,200 persons.

"Old" units rent from $41 to $56 for one to three bedroom units, which include utilities, refrigerator and stove. Some are furnished. The new units, slated to be opened this week, rent from $75 to $85 for one and two bedroom apartments, although a special group will rent for $95.

Wilson admitted some Village residents have full-time jobs and two cars and that no determined effort has been made to screen those living there as to ability to afford to live elsewhere. He said he believes a minimum of six units must be carried at the University in order to qualify for an apartment in the Village. Names are placed on waiting lists in order of application.

He invited people of Albany to view the new units from noon to 2 p.m. daily. They will be filled gradually with the greatest influx expected September 1-15.

Wilson said everyone at the University is grateful for the help of Albany through the years, to the police and fire departments and other departments. He said one student had embarrassed students and University officials by complaining about the police department.

Elmer Coble, secretary of the YMCA, suggested a welcoming committee from Albany to visit new residents and a special Sales Week as they are moving in.

About 30 persons attended the luncheon.

Williams Says He Can Sell Albany, If --

"I can sell Albany, but I can't deliver," Chamber President James Williams told the audience at the second public luncheon staged by the Albany Chamber of Commerce at the YMCA last Wednesday noon.

Explaining he has people who have money who are willing to invest in Albany, he admitted he doesn't know what to do with them.

He attributed part of his problem to the general attitude of Albany residents, reflected in conversations on the street, which are mostly defeatist.

"Every time I take potential investors up on the side of Albany Hill, I remember that song, 'I'm Looking Over a Four Leaf Clover'," Williams said. This could be an ideal center or hub, the Chamber president said, but we have no concentration of shopping areas and we don't have enough parking.

He suggested an organization of property owners, real estate people, lawyers and others, who would develop a plan for the city, decide on design and architecture, some way to combine parking lots, and to arm themselves with options from property owners, so there would be something tangible to deliver when potential

'Won't Change Route, But You Can Have Station,' Transit Officials Declare

Rapid Transit District officials have in effect told Albany that a change in routing here is out of the question, but they have offered to give the city a station if the Council requests it.

An informal meeting was held Saturday to discuss the Rapid Transit situation, Mayor Joel Parker said at a meeting following the Council session Monday night.

For all practical purposes, the question of changing the routing from west of the Santa Fe right-of-way to the area of the freeway is a dead issue, Albany officials said. Transit officials will not go against the recommendations of their engineers, who favor the Santa Fe routing and oppose the freeway. Engineers originally set up plans for a station in Albany and officials are willing to go along if the mayor and council request the location of a station here.

Mayor Parker said that if the routing must be along the Santa Fe and Albany has no station, "we'll have all the disadvantages and none of the advantages."

On the other hand, a station would mean the removal of more homes in the center of the city and there is a question of whether Albany streets are adequate for the anticipated influx of automobiles, Councilman Lewis Howell pointed out.

Stan Young, a member of Barry Runnions' Citizen Committee on Rapid Transit, said the combination of the elevated and a station "would wipe out the center of town." He said he had been told that an unattended parking lot requires 600-700 square feet of space for each car. Parking lots are planned for 750 cars.

Administrative Officer James B. Turner said there is a possibility of overhead parking structures. According to plans of December, 1956, when an Albany station was included, everything between Marin, Masonic, Washington and Key Route Blvd., was slated to come out.

Runnion told the Council that his committee will gather as much information as possible about the impact on the community in the event a station is located here and will report findings back to the Council. He said the group will arrange a public meeting and will attempt to find out how the people of Albany feel about a station.

As Turner said, "There are many pluses and minuses to be evaluated."

CITY COUNCIL ADOPTS BUDGET; TAX RATE UP 19.5 CENTS

Members of the Albany City Council Monday night adopted a 1962-63 budget of $847,735, an increase of $51,254.50 over last year, and set a new tax rate of $1.605 for the city, which added to the 35-cent tax it collects for the school, brings the total rate to $1.955 per $100 assessed valuation.

The new tax rate represents an increase of 19½ cents over last year's rate of $1.76 per $100 assessed valuation.

Four resolutions pertaining to the budget passed unanimously. They involved adoption of the yearly tax rate and budget; determining salaries of employees and officers; fixing transportation and car allowances, and providing for payment of $4,700 to the Chamber of Commerce.

The budget is to be published in the Albany Times again this year, possibly within the next two weeks.

In his budget message to the Council, Administrative Officer James B. Turner said one of the basic problems in the city results from loss of business, accounting for lower income from sales and use tax. It is hoped, he added, that with the active support of the Chamber of Commerce, merchants and people of the community, the ebbing tide of local business can be reversed.

Approximately $27,000 of the increase in the current budget represents salary increases, Turner said. Even with the 5½ per cent salary increase, most positions remain between eight and 10 per cent below comparable salaries in the area, he said.

The resignation of Police Officer John Malone, effective August 4, was accepted with regret. He has joined the Richmond Police Department.

Two ordinances, establishing speed limits on Frontage Road and rezoning certain properties from R-1 to CE-3 for Safeway, were passed to print on second reading.

Following lengthy discussions on both subjects, the matters of signs on the lawns and in the windows of private residences and use of various materials in parking strips were referred back to the Planning and Zoning Commission, which has set a joint meeting with Park and Recreation Commissioners to discuss parking strip treatment.

In other matters, the Council named Councilman Joe Carlevaro to represent it at a meeting yesterday in Oakland to take steps to organize an agency similar to the Youth Opportunities Board of Greater Los Angeles, adding a request to Police Chief Ralph Jensen to send a representative; named Recreation Director Bud Rooney and members of the Recreation Commission to represent the city at a meeting August 7 in Oakland to coordinate all recreational planning for Alameda County;

Filed communications from Albany Post 292, American Legion, thanking the Council for financial assistance in sending the color guard to the state convention in Fresno, and from the State Compensation Insurance Fund advising change in collection of premiums.

The meeting was adjourned in memory of John Erickson, former city employee, whose funeral was Tuesday morning.

Girl Scouts at Button Bay Eat, and Eat and . . .

At the third Girl Scout Senior Roundup, approximately 8,500 Girl Scouts and 1,700 adults assembled at Button Bay State Park, Vermont, July 18-31. On the 450-acre site bordering the shores of Lake Champlain, a city of 6,000 tents was set up in just 48 hours.

The girls were responsible for preparing all their own meals over charcoal stoves and shared the responsibility of fire building, cooking, and washing up. Each patrol was responsible for picking up its own provisions three times daily from one of the six centrally located commissaries.

Menus were carefully planned from soup to nuts, to combine high nutritional quality and a variety of foods. Intriguing new recipes were devised especially for the event. Two new breakfast dishes identified with intriguing names added fillip to the excellent flavors: High Dive Cooler, a combination of beef broth and apple juice; Souper Scramble, scrambled eggs enriched with condensed cream of mushroom soup.

Lunchtime menus included such appellations as Green Mountain Chowder, Chilled Tomato Soup Shake, Turkey-in-the-Straw Soup, and Green and Gold consomme. Three cans of condensed soup served one patrol (eight scouts and one adult leader).

Hot meals or meals with soup were served in the evening. Main courses included lamb chops, barbecued chicken, broiled steak, beef stew, chicken dumplings, all of which were served with fresh or canned vegetables.

The following quantities of food were used to prepare some 432,400 meals: 35,900 cans of condensed soup or 143,000 individual servings, 23 tons of meat, 5,000 chickens, 21,582 loaves of bread, 65,000 rolls, 106,962 eggs, 518,802 glasses of milk, 32,000 quarts of milk for cooking, 15 tons of fruit.

Their cooking fires consumed some 53 tons of charcoal. The girls used around 500,000 paper napkins and 800,000 plastic-coated paper cups and plates.

Mower also plans to talk a little on the need for better supervision in private pools.

P&Z Commission Sets New Parking Ruling

Members of the Planning and Zoning Commission voted 3-2 July 24 to ask the city attorney to redraft a resolution to include one and a half parking spaces per dwelling unit for all residential uses. The previous requirement was one parking space per unit.

Those voting in favor were Chairman Robert Luoma, H. F. Call and Norman Faulkner. Opposing were Norman Jacobson and Carl MacWilliams.

A motion to leave the ordinance restricting signs in residential districts "as is" passed 3-2 with Call, Jacobson and MacWilliams voting yes and Faulkner and Luoma voting no. The City Council had asked the commission to take "another look" at the ordinance, which is opposed by many people on the grounds that they may not post political signs in their yards.

In other matters, commissioners approved an application from James Construction Company to build a four-plex at 810 Madison, held over a request by the same company to build a four-plex at 935 Pierce until the City Attorney has studied the possiblity of nonconformity in the case, and set Thursday, August 9, as the date of a joint meeting with the Park and Recreation commission to discuss materials used in parking strips.

THOUSAND OAKS CHAPTER No. 375, Order of the Eastern Star, will have a pot luck dinner and courtesy night meeting Monday, August 6, at 6:30 p.m. in the Masonic Temple, Colusa and Catalina Aveneus. Alice Duggan is banquet room chairman.

Albany Bowl at 540 San Pablo Avenue will observe its "lucky 13th" anniversary Saturday and Sunday, when a continuous "Red Head Pin" schedule throughout the day and night will afford bowlers an opportunity to win a free game.

Any time a bowler gets a strike when the red head pin is the head pin, he will be entitled to a free game. In addition, the Head Pin Coffee Shop will provide a piece of "anniversary cake" with any food purchase.

The grand opening of the popular business was August 5, 1949, when it featured 16 lanes with pin setters. It was opened by Albany Recreation Corporation with Frank Lacy as president.

Ten new lanes were added in February, 1952. The first automatic pin setters in Northern California were added in January, 1954.

In July, 1958, 10 more lanes were added, establishing Albany Bowl as the largest in the East Bay at that time.

There were 20 names on the payroll when the Bowl opened. Now there are 37. Seven of the original employees remain there today, according to William Lacy, current corporation president. His father, Frank, died in January, 1960.

In addition to Lacy, there are Frank's wife, Rhea, vice president; James Olry, secretary-treasurer; Ralph Johnston, head bartender; Vivian Frank, desk attendant, and Sam Holmes, janitor. Lawrence (Lefty) Deparade, who started as pin-setter, now is night manager.

Bob Rhea, who started on the desk with the installation of 10 lanes in 1952, currently serves as promotion manager and is considered another "old timer" at the Bowl.

Ten perfect 300 games have been rolled at Albany Bowl in its 13 years, three in league competition by Doc Long, Dave Colussi and Tony Mascaro. Others rolled in "pot games" and open play were by Jim Fallon, Russ Grey, Art Neumann, eKith Harris, Al Knight, Vern Dowling and Colussi.

Why do you keep coming back to Solano Hardware? (How many of them do!) And here's what some of them said:

- I like the paint brands we carry — "Dutch Boy" has been used by our family for years.
- You know your products and how to use them. I depend on the advice I get at Solano.
- Whatever I'm painting, you've always had everything I needed to do the job right.
- Your man visited my house. Told me exactly how to proceed on the paint job.

May we help you next time you're planning to paint?

badly out of shape from imbibing. In fact, they had risked life and limb by staggering into the street each time a car came by, trying to "hitch a ride" to the 900 block of Cornell. They denied being drunk, but Officers James Simmons and George Sartain noted they could not stand without swaying. Both were given a ride to jail, where bail for one, arrested for being drunk the third time, was set at $105, and for the other, a first-time offender, was set at $21.

An exasperated woman called the police July 27 to complain that someone either has a key or is forcing his way into her home when the family is at their cabin. The unknown interloper comes in, disturbs the clean house, and even shaves in the bathroom.

The families of two Albany boys, ages 15 and 13, will have to pay for damage done by their sons at Cornell School recently. Seems they tipped over a drum of paint, which they smeared on buildings and windows with rolled up newspapers. Their big mistake was writing their names in paint. Atlas Painting Company set damages at $491.39.

The night of July 24-25 was a big one. First the department assisted at the fire at the John Pleish home at 12:27 a.m., and at 1:53, they were out again, this time at the Cook Piano Company fire. Sandwiched between the fires was an interlude with a large white rabbit, discovered running in circles in the middle of Marin at Key Route.

Michael Volz Honored

An Albany High School student is one of 70 outstanding young science scholars who have been selected for attendance at a summer research participation program now being conducted on the Berkeley campus of the University of California.

Michael G. Volz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Volz of 708 Pomona, was chosen from among applicants throughout the state for the opportunity to study advanced research techniques and scientific methods under the direct guidance of distinguished U.C. faculty members. Michael is working on basic problems of soil analysis and soil moisture content as a member of a research team headed by Esther P. Perry, a specialist on soils and plant nutrition at the University's agricultural experimental station.

The summer research program, administered by University Extension and underwritten by a grant from the National Science Foundation, is designed to encourage high school students' interest in scientific work by introducing them to research activity normally attained only at the college or graduate level.

Michael is assisting Dr. Perry in the chemical analysis of different types of soil, and is doing individual work on problems of soil moisture and the water-holding properties of various soils, with particular reference to their ability to sustain crops. Dr. Perry points out that Michael has been given specific responsibilities in the work of the research team. "He is not just a 'lab hand'," she notes.

Michael's participation in the summer research program will continue through August 24.

A BULL FROG INCIDENT

By WALTER HOLLAND

At the public hearing on Safeway held at Albany City Hall Monday, July 16, the council chamber was filled to capacity with proponents and opponents.

Mayor Joel Parker at the outset announced that each speaker would be allowed five minutes to express his views.

Ralph Buckwalter, a poet who writes verse during election campaigns extolling those he is for and condemning those he is against, and who opposes Safeway market, addressed the council and audience.

Then Nick Reckas, a retailer of spring and fall fabrics on Solano Avenue, talked in favor of Safeway and in his closing remarks inferred that all who opposed the proposed building were "bull frogs."

Buckwalter took exception to being classed as an amphibian and when he rose to voice his objection, the mayor objected because Buckwalter had used his five minutes. But Buckwalter loudly insisted he be given time to refute the charge of he being a bull frog.

Whereupon the Mayor told Buckwalter to sit down, which he refused to do until Mayor Parker threatened to have him removed by the gendarmes, who see that the decorum of Council meetings is maintained.

THE AFTERMATH . . .

When Walter E. Ellis Jr., acting commander of Albany Post 292, American Legion, opened the meeting of the post on July 20, there was a commotion in the ante room.

All Legionnaires, including Buckwalter, turned to see Alvin (Al) Drozda, who is as big as a bull moose and neither an opponent or proponent for Safeway, hopping in on all fours (like a frog), followed by David Todd with a bunch of cornstock broom straws (shades of Mark Twain) to tickle the posterior of the frog-like character.

Buckwalter jumped to his feet, his face a flaming red, his eyes gleaming like fire and cords and veins in his neck swelling out like one inch pipe as the "frog" hopped to him. Drozda looked up at Buckwalter with his soft, bullfrog brown eyes, emitted two or three mournful croakes and retired with his tickler.

This token of affection so softened Buckwalter that tears gushed forth and he admitted that a bull frog is one of nature's gentlest of creatures and being likened unto one is not derogatory to one's character.

Editor, The Times:

The officers and members of Albany Post No. 292, the American Legion, say "Thank You" to the Albany Times and the Thousand Oaks Times and the voters of Albany and elsewhere who supported and voted "Yes" on Proposition No. 2 on the June 5th primary ballot: The California Veteran Home and Farm Purchase Bonds.

As the results of the favorable majority for Proposition No. 2 in the communities in which your papers circulate, Albany Post has received congratulations and commendations from The Department of California, the American Legion and from Joseph Farber, state director of veteran affairs.

Albany Post desires to share this praise and congratulations with all who gave proposition No. 2 their support and "Yes" vote on June 5.

Oral Polio Vaccine Clinics Set

The first of three community-wide oral vaccine clinics to combat polio will be held September 23 in Berkeley, Albany, El Cerrito and Kensington.

Additional day-long clinics are scheduled November 4 and December 9.

The clinics will be open to residents of all ages. A donation of 25 cents will be requested for each dose of vaccine.

Health officers of the four communities said that residents should receive oral vaccine on all three dates in order to be fully protected.

The clinics will be open eight hours on each of the three Sundays in order to reach as wide a segment of the population as possible.

The Albany clinic will be held at Albany High School. Sites of the Berkeley, El Cerrito and Kensington clinics will be announced.

The local clinics are part of an area-wide program sponsored by the Bay Area Medical Assn. The association estimates that more than eight million doses of oral vaccine will be given in the Bay Area.

The clinics were planned after the U.S. Public Health Service approved earlier this year the final strain of oral vaccine. Two other strains had earlier been passed on. Oral vaccine differs from Salk vaccine in that the three strains are administered in separate doses rather than mixed in one.

The community-wide clinics have been spaced approximately one month apart in order that residents may reiceive the maximum immunity from the separate strains of oral vaccine.

In Albany, school children who have not been immunized against polio can meet the new state requirement if they receive the first oral vaccine dosage on September 23. Albany schools will reopen September 11, and the law allows a two-week grace period for receiving the first vaccine dosage or injection.

Since schools in Berkeley, El Cerrito and Kensington reopen September 5, students who have not been immunized will have to show evidence of immunization by September 19.

Return of Salk Institute Donations Asked

A speedy return of mail donations to the current Salk Institute Building Fund campaign was urged today by Mrs. Donald Pearce, chapter chairman for the sponsroing group — Alameda County Chapter, National Foundation.

"We are still far from our $100,000 countywide goal—which will help to underwrite the cost of construction and equipment for the Salk Institute for Biological studies at San Diego," Mrs. Pearce said.

She said that some of the world's top scientists will work at the Salk-Institute for Biological Studies, which is being erected on land donated by the city of San Diego at La Jolla.

"They will seek in their laboratories the answers to cancer, leukemia, heart disease, mental retardation, virus diseases, and many other human afflictions," Mrs. Pearce explained.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES BORREANI of 1030 Kains are the parents of a daughter, Rhonda Ann, born July 19 at Alta Bates Hospital. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Gil (Marietta) Ferreira and Marie Borreani all of Albany.
